THE LOAN AGAIN.

After a three we ks' calm, during which the much talked-of ten million sterling loan with all its expectations had been relegated to oblivion, the old, familiar rumours have been revived and the hopes of the market raised again to a high pitch. It appears that neither the Argentine Government nor the London bankers have abandoned the negotiations that form the "via crucis" of this big loan business, and it is known that the Executive have still six days' grace to accept the conditions of the lenders. We had hoped that the Minister of Finance had signified his unwillingness to accept the loan, especially at a moment when the flourishing condition of the Treasury, the credits abroad, and the staggering nominal increase in the revenue, precluded all suspicions that the Government were in need of the loan or had to beg such a favor from the London bankers. The temptation seems to have been too great, since it, is announced that the loan negotiation has been resumed, and Dame Rumor whispered yesterday that the business is now a foregone conclusion. The success of the business has been so often announced and then contradicted that we still cling to the hope that the loan will not be done.

As we have stated above, the Government is not in need of the loan, for the Minister of Finance has superabundant resources to meet all obligations and face all emergencies. The only excuse for accepting the ten million sterling so liberally offered by our London friends would be the formation of a gold reserve to guarantee the issue of notes of the National Bank, half the capital of which belongs to the National Government. Or is the Govl ernment determined to carry out the Varela dream, form a "Caisse", and take under its wing the whole paper currency of the country? Such banking philanthropy has already been discussed at length; let the Government take its own bank, the National Bank, in hand, but let it not extend its munificence to the fourteen State Free Banks of the Provinces. Let Congress vote a law, giving all the State Banks two years' grace to convert their notes or go into liquidation; this would settle the currency difficulty very quickly and bring some inland banking Governments to a sense of their responsibility. For it would be folly on the part of the National Government to spend millions in the appreciation of bank-notes of banks whose management is "de facto" in the hands of the Provincial Governments, quite independent of the control of the National Executive. All the efforts of the latter would be defeated in the commonest political emergency by the interests at stake in the respective Provinces; this is one of the collaterals of so-called state-banking. As long as state banks, like those of the Interior especially, are back or front parlors of a Government house; as long as the distribution of money flows in the same channel as party interests, ambition and speculation, so long will it be utopian to talk of appreciation of the currency; and as well scatter the ten millions of the rumoured loan in the Plaza Victoria as sink them in the ungrateful task of regenerating a currency that is beyond redemption in its present condition.

If a too keen consciousness of responsibility in this regard induces the National Government to accept the 10 million sterling loan and devote all its energies to the task of appreciating the country's currency; if that same feeling of susceptibility precludes all hopes of energetic proceedings against those banks of issue which are actually paying dividends, whilst their reserves are nominal and their notes at 55 o/o discount or more; if, we repeat, the Government is determined to spare those banks and assume all the responsibility of the nation's currency, why not at once turn all these State free banks at one sweep into branches of the National Bank, assume all their liabilities and relieve the provinces of the burden of loans they cannot bear. If the design of the Government in starting a National Caisse be a universal control of the money market from the shores of the Atlantic to the Andes, why not do away with all the hybrid banking that has culminated in the present crisis. Let the control be supreme, let there be no exceptions, let there be only one bank, the National Bank, and if necessary buy out the interests of the shareholders in the latter concern; the opportunity is favorable, as the shares are now a drug in the market. The result would be only one State-bank and that the Bank of the Nation or of the Constitution. What's in a name? Only one State-bank; but all the other banks in the country free banks in the literal sense of the word.

What a colossal weapon for good or evil the Government would then wield, but what a number of little weapons would be thus wrenched from the hands of the provincial governments? What a blessing if the whole mechanism of state-banking could be wiped out, and the financial fabric could rest on the sound and independent foundation of free-banking pure and simple! This is perhaps too much to expect under the circumstances, but if the Government volunteer to raise a loan to improve the currency, it must expect something in return; and the least it can expect is that some guarantee be given that the very banks thus favored by the policy of the nation cannot turn against their benefactor —The National Executive.

We shall not in connection with these rumours of the resumption of the loan negotiation refer to other rumours in the same connection, whispers to the effect that the ten million loan will be the signal for a fresh increase in the issue of paper money. Such rumours are actually taking shape and form; it is said that one hundred million new paper dollars will be issued on the guarantee of the loan's proceeds, say 48 millions gold. This must be absurd, since the law of Congress prohibits any fresh issue of paper for the next year and a half. Still, we fear that the prospects of so much gold from London, if the loan be accepted, are apt to turn the heads of people, especially when they must listen to the daily clamor of a dearth of money in the Interior and extraordinary tightness in the market here. A little common sense will do much more than all the London gold, for a few strokes of the pen and a vote of Congress can eradicate the evils of the financial situation, while the loan at best will merely afford temporary relief, to be followed by still greater financial prostration.

STATISTICS OF CORDOBA.

The population of this province, according to the last census, is 350,000, and the area 176,190 square kilometres. The area under cultivation is 235,978 hectares. The crops last year amounted to 71,895 tons, and the yield of wine and spirits of wine was 514,499 litres. The total value of the crops was $3,025,622. In regard to cattle, there were last year 3,328,770 cows, sheep, horses and goats valued at $17,336,012, as the following table shews:

		$
Cows	1,297,941	11,681,469
Horses ..	255,439	1,277,195
Mules ...	18,226	291,616
Sheep ...	1,385,760	2,771,520
Goats ...	371,404	1,114,212
	3,328,770	17,336,012

Cordoba has been very fast in the borrowing line. In two years it accumulated debt to the amount of 16 million dollars gold, and at one moment it was very nearly launching a loan for 25 millions gold, which loan, it is expected, will only be negotiated next November.

The salt-industry has grown considerably and last year 3,328 tons were extracted. Property was valued at $23,967,350 against $17,873,000 in 1887.

In the way of enterprise Cordoba is behind Santa Fe. Messrs. Bancalari and Co. recently proposed to start a bank with five millions capital and a few railway concessions were granted during the year.

One of the richest departments of Cordoba is Bell-Ville, so called after the late Mr. Bell. At one time it was almost entirely English settlement. To-day we cannot find an English name in the long list of settlers. According to the latest official statistics the cultivation of the soil there is:—

	Alfalfa Squares	Wheat Squares
Colonies.....	26,000	19,000
Santiago Diaz....	1,200	750
J. M. Bouquet...	1,000	750
Dr. W. Escalante	200	300
Guinazu y Renia	300	500
Ortiz Bros.....	400	400
B.Moyano.....	200
C. Casas.....	160	250
Casas y Samartino.....	50
	29 510	21,950

The square represents 4 acres and a fraction. The yield of alfalfa is known to be 5 tons per square; so that we may calculate the alfalfa crop of Bell-Ville to be 127,550 tons, and the market price is 20 dol. per ton. The alfalfa industry is assuming proportions now and every available ton for export is sent to Brazil and other countries where as fodder for horses it is unrivalled. Whithin the last two or three years, owing to the development of the industry, many a hard-working agriculturist has built up a large fortune, and we have no hesitation in saying that any man who puts a league of camp under alfalfa has prospects of acquiring the fortune of a Vanderbilt.

In regard to wheat the yield is estimated at ten fanegas or forty bushels at the least per square, and the market price is set down at eight dollars per fanega, although we have repeatedly reported sales within the last month at ten, twelve and even as high as fifteen dollars per fanega.

From the foregoing we may gather that although Bell-Ville is no longer English, it never was so prosperous as now. It is to be observed that among those who have land under alfalfa and wheat in Bell-Ville is Dr. Wenceslao Escalante, the well known deputy for Santa Fe, whose financial views, within and without the walls of Congress-hall, are justly regarded as the soundest in the country. It is a good sign to see a deputy carry his financial convictions so far as to purchase a plough and with the energy of a Cato and the perseverance of a Cincinnatus till the soil to give his fellow-countrymen an example. The plough is mightier than the pen, and where laws and decrees will fail to produce good, the country's wheat-fields will supply the remedy all so anxiously seek. We warmly applaud Deputy Escalante and we fully appreciate his delicacy in selecting Cordoba as a field for his agricultural and financial labors.

WHAT ITALY THINKS

"OF ARGENTINE CEDULAS, SHINPLASTERS, "Y OTRAS YERBAS."

We make the following extracts from a long article and correspondence from Italy published by our esteemed colleague La Patria Italiana. They show what a very serious adverse impression the financial condition of this country has made in Italy; and it is only too probable that the Immigration returns for this year may be affected by it. Under the heading "Panic Again," our contemporary says:—

"We referred at length yesterday to the exaggerated fears which the high premium on gold here, the shaky position of some few commercial firms, the ugly events on the Bolsa and the other transitory ills that Argentina is now suffering from have excited in Europe. The European market is simply terrified, and expects at any moment a financial earthquake here that will give a death blow to the credit of the country.

"But yesterday we showed how excessive is the panic that is spreading like a contagion all over Europe. To-day, to prove how deeply rooted the evil is, we publish a letter from Genoa, written by a person who resided here for many years and is thoroughly acquainted with the conditions of this country. The news from this side has made a most unfavorable impression on him: in fact his letter is so bitter and pessimistic that we deem it better to suppress several paragraphs: but the following extracts are quite enough to give our readers an idea of the trepidation caused on the other side of the ocean by the gradual development of the Argentine financial crisis:—

"Every steamer leaving Genoa takes back to your shores hundreds of innocent victims of the monetary disorder in Argentina. I watch them as they embark. They all seem weighed down by some secret sorrow. Not even when bidding farewell to their dearest relatives do they shed a tear; they weep inwardly, but their eyes are dry. It makes one sad to look at them. Unfortunate people! After long years of toil, sacrifice and the most pinching economy, they accumulated a capital sufficient to enable them to pass the rest of their days comfortably in their native land; and this capital, when they left Argentina, they invested in Hypothecary Cedulas, in bank or other shares, in houses, or in land, paying 9, 10 or 12 per cent. "By leaving our capital here," they said to themselves, "we shall have so many scudi yearly and can live like gentlemen in our own house;" and they sailed for home, blessing the good and generous capital of South America.

"They "counted without their host." These honest and sanguine pioneers did not know that South America is as capricious as a woman of the world; that it is the land of fraud and tricks; that neither its own money nor that of others is safe in it; that everything there yonder rebels against even the most ordinary laws of social stability, and that 20,000, 50,000 or 100,000 scudi, the fruit of years of toil, may by some strange vicissitude be any day reduced by 20, 50, ayo even 100 per cent.

"This, in their unconscious optimism, they could not foresee. They left Argentina when the epoch of civil strife closed, and, guaranteed by a strong Government, all fears of fresh revolutions were dispelled, and a most brilliant future seemed opening for the country. Who would have hesitated to trust his fortune to such a splendid country in such a condition? Their optimism was logical.

"A Genoa paper says:—"Considering this, we are of opinion that our Government is bound to take care that it is not included in the number of those on whom the guilt and responsibility of having so seriously injured the vast Italian interests in Argentina must fall: and whether it should not, in this case, make its voice heard, and point out to the Argentine Government the errors of its ways and the right road to follow, as its present course is viewed in Italy with both fear and suspicion."

"For myself, I think that neither our Government, nor any other in Europe or America, has a tittle of right to interfere in Argentine affairs, as foreigners residing there are, "ipso facto", subject to its laws; and interference by a foreign power would be a violation of principles which, in our own case, we would be the first to condemn; and I have only referred to what the Genoese paper says to show the state of public opinion all over Europe as to who is responsible for the Argentine crisis.

"For the honour of Democracy and Liberal principles I should be sorry to see any foreign Power resort to arms against Argentina to protect legitimate interests that have been violated there; but its Government should be forced to listen to the voice of warning instead of jeering at it. There is a point in the International relations of States when principles of independence, of autonomy and sovereignty have merely a relative value. That point is Material Interests. No State can avail of its sovereignty in its own territory in order to wound these interests. Therefore, as the extraordinary depreciation of paper money in the Argentine Republic is very prejudicial to foreigners, its Government is bound to eliminate the causes which, in the opinion of the injured parties, render it responsible for said injury.

"How is this to be done? It is not for me to point it out. The rulers of that nation are so competent in so many other matters that they must be so in this, which is of supreme moment. They cannot be ignorant of the opinion held of them abroad. The credit of the country is shaken and imperilled, not by the bad economic condition of itself, but by the financial antics of its Government.

But, alas! logic and good faith are for our friends in the New World merely a broker's device to get money: they are two dark lanterns simply used to lure us over the precipice. And the proof of it is that our ingenuous Americans are going back terrified, because the capital they had in Argentina when they left, instead of paying 18 per cent. as then, does not to-day yield 4 per cent., owing to the premium on gold; and the unfortunate owners have to return to the country of this scandalous metamorphosis, to restore their fortune, if possible, by work. Thousands of families have to begin life again. This is the result of the Argentine crisis.

"I may be cynically answered: "They were not forced to leave their money in the country!" This is insult added to injury." The victims have become victims solely because they had faith in the Republic. They could not have imagined that the Government would declare itself impotent to bring a crew of Bolsa speculators to order, and even encourage and protect them, and, some say, go shares in the profits with them!!

"The victims, it is true, considered Argentina worthy of a better fate; and now they are paying for their credulity. They are very sorry: but it is too late; and they are driven to lament that they ever put faith in a young country, naturally rich, its people endowed with high moral qualities, where labour is generously rewarded; and those who have destroyed the hopes of foreigners and thrown away the fortunes of the republic to enrich a gang of gambling cut-purses, ought to be ashamed of themselves."

"It is impossible to go further. Fear suggests the most extravagant things; even foreign interference to keep down the gold premium. But the fact is, that if a barrier be not put to the depreciation of paper money, Argentina will require ten years' rest before she can start again on the road of progress.

"English and German bankers continue to make money out of this country, as all their contracts are in gold, and at a rate of interest so usurious that it would make a new East India Company blush.

"But imputation has fallen off by four-fifths. No European house will trust even the soundest firms here, and we know of cases in which absurdly small sums due have been pressed for. Firms that formerly had credit for millions can now barely get 1000 dollars; and this state of things has been helped on by these commercial "estorrantes" who, without a cent to jingle on a tombstone, have opened importing houses for the express purpose of swindling everybody they can. These gentry, like the honourable houses, now say "the banks won't discount at present".

"We must wait till all the ills that affect the country come to a head and suppurate. Improvement depends on private effort and the vitality of the country, as the Government can not rise above syrups and cataplasms. Let us hope that if the Government can do nothing good, it will do nothing bad; and will not continue to foster mad speculation, political favoritism, and all kinds of extravagance, rather than take the initiative in fostering Labour which produces and civilizes."

The Britannia's Mails.

OBITUARIES. STRIKE.

(From our own Correspondent)

London, Dec. 14th

The papers are filled with obituary notices of Robert Browning the poet. You will have long since looked him up in "Men of the Time" or "Celebrities of the Century" or other work of reference. He was not exactly "one of us" you know. He was not an Eton or Winchester man, nor a Christchurch or Trinity man, and worse, he came from a dissenting stock. He was the son of a clerk in Rothschild's firm and was educated at London university. He was born at Camberwell, in 1812, when that classic suburb was undisturbed by trains and undefiled by jerrybuilders. He was a bright, handsome lad with long black hair flowing over his shoulders. To the last he was a natty, neat, talkative gentleman fond of society and without any of the affectations of a monsieur distingué. His works, as you know, are glorified by a few, read by many and understood by none. It was a volume of Browning they sent to poor Douglas Jerrold as light reading when he was recovering from a cerebral attack. You of course remember the old tale. Jerrold wept; and throwing away the book told his wife that he was sure he should never get better for he could not understand a word of what he read. Browning, however, after years of neglect, obloquy and ridicule, rose into the first rank among modern British poets. It will be a long and angry contest as soon as Tennyson dies to fix the relative position of the two on Parnassus. Browning after a short illness passed away without pain at his favourite residence in Venice. The heart, angina pectoris and other complaints are mentioned as the immediate cause of death; but the mechanism though going vigorously to the end was worn by age.

You will see also that "Verdant Green" is dead. "Cuthbert Bede" as he is generally called, was the Revd. Mr. Bradley, a quiet Lincolnshire parson like "Lewis Carroll", the author of "Alice in Wonderland" whose real name is Dodgson. The Revd. Mr. Dodgson's principal subject is mathematics. In private he is as quaint and amusing as the famous book he at first wrote to amuse the children of one of his friends. These literary odds and ends remind us that as Christmas approaches I shall have to turn to books or electricity or something to find "copy". The revolution in Brazil was a godsend, but beyond that and the strikes there is absolutely nothing going on in the world in general. The strikes are apparently a failure. In Manchester the gas men have been thoroughly beaten, and it looks as if it would be the same here.

Mr. Livesey and the directors of the South Metropolitan Gaz Company have swept the country between London and Brighton of navvies and agricultural labourers too glad to earn the wages of the London stokers. The police authorities have rendered active assistance in protecting the new comers, who are barracked in the workshops, and being fine powerful fellows they easily take to the profession of stoking a furnace. We are told that the old hands left their employment in sadness at the command of their Trades Union. Neither here nor in Manchester will they be received again except as vacancies occur and on the terms offered to casuals. This, of course, is the gloomier presentment of the case of the workmen as we receive it from the press, mostly in the pay and interests of the employers Only those who have a technical knowledge and trade experience can pretend to judge man or master until all the details are fairly given on both sides. I must say, that if public sympathy is in this case rather against the workmen, the offers of the Gas Company have never been free from chicanery. The battle will be fought out; and if the "Liveseys" and that useful and vile class known as "managers" presume too much on their success, great social troubles are in store for us. The worst features in these labor contests is the animal hatred of the sweating and the sweated which exists on the side of the well-to-do. The evil passion is most malignant in those who have risen themselves from the ranks and have worn leather aprons. As for the public, it was pleased to pet the dockers, because their labor did not directly concern us. But because coal portars, bakers and gas stokers when they strike deprive us of firing, starve us of penny rolls and place us in darkness, such men are said "to war against society," and it is so; but if society be founded on a species of slavery, it is well it should learn what war means when waged on both sides with something like equality. People will say, society, or the upper fragment of it, has earned its advantages and has a right to use them. Very well, there is the Queen, who always gains prizes at the cattle show. Lord So and So and Mr. Jealous, cattle breeders, tell us they cannot and will not compete against Her Majesty, for "if she cannot rear prize bullocks, who can?" The gentlemen farmers are going to strike! but why? Why should not the Queen use her advantages and carry off the prizes for fat cattle?

Sir Lyon Playfair, the duffer Radical and Economist of the old school, has been addressing his constituents in Leeds and is decidedly hedging on the points that divide him from the newer social economy. He objects to the State or the Municipality building houses for the poor, and instances the fact that in London rooms let by philanthropic builders at 1/s per week are not occupied by the poor, who object to the conditions of cleanliness and decency. In the same way he says the Government landlords in Kerry cannot get the Irish peasantry to occupy the nice cottages they build for them because the people insist upon having their pigs and cattle to sleep with them. Surely Sir Lyon must see that these "customs" are not objections to providing decent dwellings for the poor, but simply the condemnation of the present competition system which leaves the poor in misery. Sir Lyon tolerates trades unions, regrets "Industrial insurrections in the shape of strikes, dallies with the question of the eight hours bill, and appeals to the one dominating factor, "foreign competition." This "factor" Sir Lyon must know affects scarcely one fifth of the national industries.

There is again trouble at the Tilbury docks. The coal men in London are only quieted by concessions, the railway men are agitating, the Yorkshire colliers struck yesterday, and there is to be a great labour meeting to morrow—Sunday—in Hyde Park.

The jury in the Cronin case are locked up—and have been since the night before last as far as we know. We have no telegram from Chicago since yesterday.

Railway Items.

According to the official report on the progress of the works of the Monte Caseros, Corrientes and Posadas Railway, the work done last month was as follows:—

The cubic thrown up was 251,000 metres, which makes a total of 4,629,000 cubic metres up to date. The stone-work amounted to 5,800 cubic metres, making a total of 44,200.

The station at kil. 34 was finished, also the station at Curuzu-Cuatiaon on the Corrientes Line. On the Santa Ana line the stations at kil. 63 and Libres were finished.

The Monte Caseros station was in course of construction, as also the stations at Mercedes, Corrientes, Posadas, Santo Tomé, and at kil. 32 on the Posadas Line.

The work of laying rails was pushed forward, and kil. 186 has now been reached. The following is the rolling-stock: Locomotives 18, wagons 233, carriages 17. The contractors have 400,000 wooden sleepers and iron-sleepers for 140 kilometres in their sheds.

The telegraph-wires now extend over 160 kilometres. There were 5000 men at work in December.

Our Rosario exchanges yesterday brought us more complete details of the disaster near Melincue recorded in our last issue. We note that amongst the passengers was Mr. Alexander Estrugamou, whose name is identified with the progress of Venado Tuerto. Mr. Charles Brett was also a passenger At kil. 71, about 7 kilometres from Melincue, the derailment occurred. The engine and tender were thrown completely off the rails. The luggage-van was reduced to matchwood. It must be remembered that the earthworks where the accident occurred are 1½ met.high. The passengers were pulled out from amongst the debris; and the wonder is the shock of the fall did not prove fatal to many of them. The driver believing, according to his own words "that the passengers were all killed" made straight for Villa Casilda. Mr. Firmat and several other engineers were soon on the scene with a special train full of bandages, cordials etc, etc. But there was no necessity for all this, as no one had been seriously hurt. Three passengers got off with a few light bruises, and three children were injured with splinters in the chest.

We note that the Rosario Municipality have issued an edict advising the railway companies there that no building shall be erected unless in strict accordance with the municipal building regulations. It may be inferred from this that one of the railway companies has been building without regard to such regulations.

In reply to "A Subsciber", we think that Gordon's railway-map can be had at any of the leading booksellers.

According to our London exchanges received yesterday per s. s. Britannia, the B. Ayres Metropolitan Tramway Company have changed their title, and the company will henceforward be styled The B. Ayres Grand National Tramways Company, Limited. This change is due to the circumstance of another company having been started here with an almost similar name. The new line is finished this month, and Mr. James Crosby is the manager. The total length of the line will be about 26 miles. One of the principal shareholders in this concern is Rear-Admiral Kennedy, who was out here some time ago as senior Captain of the Station, and whose corvette, the Ruby, is known to most of our readers. The gallant admiral has given the Board his opinions of the streets of B. Ayres, with the result that the line is to be laid in concrete.

The plans of the bridges the Central Argentine propose building on the Pergamino, San Fernando Branch, are now under Government consideration.

Government has granted to Meiggs and Co. an extension of six months for beginning the works on the lines from Nueve de Julio to San Rafael, and from San Juan to Chumbicha.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The horrid yellow fever scare is over, but the troubles of the Sabalains are not over yet. Fired by the courageous attitude of his compeer of Moron, the Mayor of Magdalena actually refused to allow the family to put their foot there. So the weary travellers trudged back again, but the police would not let them enter their house in Calle Moreno. Dr von to desperation, Mr. Sabalain, with tears in his eyes, went to the Asistencia Publica and implore Dr Asigueta to allow him and his family to sleep somewhere. With same difficulty he obtained leave to enter his house. Such are the misfortunes of this family who are the victims of a public scare. Now that the whole panic is over, the hostile authorities appears to have been carried to a terrible degree of exaggeration. "Salus Populi!" What fresh persecution will now be devised for the Sabalains we know not. The sanitary observation to which the family have been subjected terminates to day.

We publish in another column, translated from the Patria Italiana, the letter from Genoa to which we referred yesterday. It is very stiff indeed; but the original was even stiffer, and our colleague wisely suppressed part of it. The gold premium here must press terribly on our friends in Italy when so many have to return and begin the world again. Government should not turn a deaf ear to this wail of woe from Genoa the Superb.

The Sud Americano is again splendid in its last issue. The supplement "Feliz Año Nuevo" is a fine bit of work; so is Dr. Buremeister's portrait. The Lottery room in the Caridad Hospital at Montevideo, river scenes in Brazil, and a scene at Mr. Leonardo Pereyra's famed estancia "San Juan" are masterly. There are several other engravings.

The Committee of the Fronton Nacional, after the scandals of last Monday, and the frequency with which same have occurred lately, met yesterday, and in a few lines have for ever put a stop to an evil that would undoubtedly have resulted in the loss of life, sooner or later. From to-day they have established the rule that, should any of the players meet with an accident, such as sudden illness, etc., and should he belong to the side with less aces scored, the game is to be considered won by the party leading. Should both sides be equal, it is to be annulled; and should any member of the winning side be unable to play, the game is to be considered null and void. If the Committee had taken these steps in the beginning, they would have saved all the disturbances that up to the present have taken place.

We received the following note yesterday:—

Dear STANDARD—

I have suffered from insomnia for years, and was glad to read your very simple cure for it in to-day's paper. I mean to try it, but would first like to have your opinion as to whether a couple of jorums of whisky and water would come under the classification of "a moderate amount of liquid food before the patient goes to bed"?

Yours

Sleepless.

We should certainly say yes; but all depends on the size of the jorum. The prescription is evidently based on the good, (or bad) old custom of taking a 'night-cap.' It is not ours; we found it in an exchange, but accidentally forgot to say so.

"I wish you'd let me go to the city with you", said Mrs. Harry Marks, who is a humorist, to her financial husband; "I should so like to take a stroll through the money-market."

Another poisoning case was reported yesterday in Flores, and this time one person died. What can be the matter? Is the vinegar or oil bad? Is there some injurious acid lurking in the food? These are questions everyone was asking in the smiling Village of the Plain yesterday, but we must wait for Dr. Arata's report before we can arrive at any definite conclusion. This last case in Flores was terrible. Mrs. Barragan, her daughter, her niece, an adopted child of 7 years of age, and an Indian servant girl, living in the Calle Union, sat down to dinner at 8 o'clock on Monday evening. They began with a "carbonada" prepared by the niece, and before they had partaken of the whole dish they were all seized, the Indian girl excepted, with the most violent pains, and when the alarm had been spread and the doctors arrived the unfortunate family were rolling on the floor, vomiting and groaning. Antidotes were quickly applied, but after a few hours the little girl of seven succumbed. She was the last to feel the pains and display the symptons of poisoning, and she was the only one to succumb. The other persons are gradually coming round, but Mrs. Barragan, at one time, was in a very dangerous condition. It may be the oil or the vinegar that caused all this, and we advise all to be very careful. Dr. Arata's report will probably be published to-day.

The splendid Mercado Modelo, in the Plaza Lores, which cost so much money, is now coming down fast under the pickaxes of Lord Mayor Seeber's men. The other day the men found a treasure stowed away in some neglected nook that looked more like an architectural caprice than anything else. The treasure consists of 100 sovereigns, 10 100-dollar notes, 20 50-dollar notes, 40 liras, 20 Isabelina ounces, and 12 Argentinos—"pas mal," as a Frenchman would say. We don't know who the treasure goes to. Some say that, according to law, the Municipality should get it. Wouldn't they like it? In England, we believe, it would go to the Queen. The Egyptians would have placed it in their temples together with the sacred images of cats and mice. But in this civilized city it is difficult to say who has a right to it. They say that a vegetable-seller, an Italian named Gambini, used to go up every evening to the "azotea" "para tomar el fresco, but in reality to store away his goldon savings. He died the other day and has no relatives here. This reminds us there is a treasure in old Standard Court of 70,000 ounces.

An exchange gives the following description of the late Princess Alexander of Battenberg, the actress:—"Mlle. Loisinger was a tall brunette of remarkable beauty and charm of manner. Her father was for thirty years the valet of an old Austrian general residing at Prague, and her mother was a cook. Her brother, who has attained the rank of lieutenant in the Austrian army, married the daughter of a gamekeeper last summer."

The Immigration Department sent Mr Lix Klett to the Roads yesterday to look after the bears and Bohemians whose arrival we announced yesterday. They are to be packed back to Europe.

The dirty beggar with the shrivelled hand was again to be seen jumping on tram cars in Calle Piedad yesterday; and neither guards nor policemen took any notice of him. It is a most scandalous nuisance.

A decree for throwing away $30,000 on the shanty called a Lazaretto on Flores Island was issued yesterday.

Hear! Hear! The La Plata Municipality have shut up all dancing saloons and schools till winter comes round, and have also prohibited masquerade balls. It is sincerely to be hoped that the City Commissioners here will follow such an excellent example. If there is a germ of disease floating about, these abominable orgies are certain to fan it into a flame that may destroy half the population.

Stranger (to fellow-passenger)— "Excuse me, but am I not right in taking you for a professional man?" Fellow passenger—'Yes, sir.' 'Thanks. It's not often that I make a mistake in judging my fellow men. Your work is head work altogether, of course?' Fellow passenger—'Oh yes, sir—entirely so.' Stranger—'Er—lawyer?' Fellow passenger—'No sir; barber.'

Mr. Mallet, H. Majesty's Consul in Rosario, paid a flying visit to town yesterday, and we were glad to see him in the best of health. He reports the great bulk of the Santa Fe wheat harvest cut and stacked, and that there is not a shadow of doubt as to the yield of all the crops this year being phenomenal. The reports of damage to crops by the recent storms were pure inventions of speculators.

Voracious novel readers requiring the latest efforts of the boss fictionists cannot do better than pay a visit to the Red Star Agency, 414 Calle Victoria, where they will find a large assortment of the very newest stories by Rider Haggard, Barrett, Fayon, Phillips and others.

One of the strangest things in this contradictory world is that bathing suits should be made out of dry goods.

We thank Mr. Crispin, agent of the Queen Insurance Company, for the beautiful blotters and calendars for 1889 he sent us yesterday. They are quite works of art.

A lawyer depends on words: the real estate man on deeds.

With very sincere pleasure we announce the news that the Admiralty have rewarded the long and distinguished services of Captain Kennedy, of H.M.S. "Ruby", by promotion to the rank of Rear Admiral. We most cordially congratulate our gallant friend, and telegraphed yesterday to Mr. Buckland to at once hoist the Union Jack on Mount Kennedy, San Blas.

The Villarino starts for the Land of Fire on Saturday. In her go the surveyors who have undertaken to measure there 500 leagues (part of the 24,000) for sale in Europe.

Letters from Valparaiso announce that Grais, the parachutist, had a narrow escape of the next world. The parachute would not open, and he was just turning almost head downwards, when it righted, and he was saved almost by a miracle, reaching the ground in safety.

A plan for school play-grounds, which has obtained in London for some years, has been mooted in New York in connection with new school buildings in the crowded tenement district on the east side. In these regions space is limited and dear, and the play-rooms are usually in dark and damp basements. Now it is proposed to try the experiment of having playgrounds on the roof. The plan is to carry the walls up another storey, but to have no roof. In wet weather a canvass top would be spread over the roof, but at all other times the children would have the full benefit of the air and the sun. This experiment has been tried in London, and has been found to work satisfactorily, and in one case a glass roof—forming a "crystal room"—was set up, to the delight and comfort of the little ones.

The second pic-nic of the Quilmes Recreation Club took place on Monday. A large company assembled to take part in the pleasures of the day and were all more than satisfied with the care taken by the Committee to provide for their entertainment. After a 'recherché' lunch, five impromtu horse races were got up, which afforded the greatest possible amusement to the owners and their friends. A number of athletic exercises followed, and the day was brought to a close by a substantial dinner, to which all present did full justice. The weather, which at one time threatened to break up the company, happily kept fine; and at dusk all went home charmed with the good feeling which had presided over the meeting. Great praise is due to the Committee of the Club for the excellent arrangements which so largely contributed to make the gathering a signal success.

Stranger (to hotel proprietor)—"Have you a vacancy among your waiters?" Hotel proprietor—"Well, I don't know. I suppose I might make a place for a man of fine address like you. Have you ever had any experience in waiting?" Stranger—"Well, I should say so. I waited 13 years to marry a girl, and last week she married another fellow."

The richest author in the world is undoubtedly Mr. William Waldorf Astor, son of John Jacob Astor, of New York, who is said to be worth nearly twenty million pounds. Mr. Astor has assigned to his son all his property, real and personal, so that after his death no attempt shall be made to break his will. The fortunate young gentleman is the author of two Italian novels, the second of

NEW SUMMER DRAPERY!!

Beg to advise the public in general that they now have on view a magnificent assortment of NEW GOODS, Dress-materials, consisting of many quite new fabrics and designs. Fancy brocaded, checked and striped Zephyr

The Catalinas Wharf Company, once the "enfant gâté" of Fortune's smiles and of Government support, is now the primary cause of fresh delays in the construction and of fresh expenditure in the estimates of the Madero Port Works. It appears that the National Government was weak enough to grant to the Catalinas Company on the 9th of August last an extension of the term stipulated for the removal of the wharf, an operation that must be effected to make way for the Port Works. It was little thought that this favour to the Catalinas would entail much confusion, long delay, and heavy extra expenditure to the Port Works, but such is the case; and Messrs. Madero and Son have been informed by the consulting engineers, Messrs Hawkshaw and Hayter, that the contractors, Messrs. Walker, calculate the extra expenditure occasioned by the concession to the Catalinas, at $743,000 gold, say £147,500 stg., not to mention an extraordinary delay of twelve months and the collateral expenses and loss of interest during that time. In fact, we may put down the total extra expenditure caused by the concession to the Catalinas Company, at a minimum of £250,000 stg. Is the Government willing to accept these delays and this fresh expenditure? Or will the concession to the Catalinas Company be repealed? We should say that there can be no question as to the course that the Government must pursue.

As is already known, several joint stock companies, and among them the Banco Constructor de la Plata, have resolved to reduce their capital, the best means of effecting this being the only thing now under consideration. It has been proposed to effect the withdrawal of shares by issuing fresh debentures, but as this would necessarily increase the volume of the bank's indebtedness, in place of reducing it, Mr. Frank Livingstone has proposed the following plan, perfectly feasible, and which meets with a large share of support among the shareholders of the bank:—

1st. To charge the reserve fund, which at present stands at one million dollars, into an amortization fund with the same million dollars and all the profits of the bank over twenty per cent. per annum. With the million dollars at present available public tenders should be called for to supply the shares, and these taken up and burnt with all due formalities.

2nd. An annual dividend of twenty per cent., payable five per cent every quarter, is declared.

3rd. In order to guarantee the punctual payment of this dividend, the Prevision Fund, which stands at 850,000 dollars, shall be raised to one million dollars.

4th. With the profits that pass twenty per cent., the operation set forth in Article 1 is to be practised. What is sought is to diminish and not increase the bank's paper in circulation, and this is only to be done by restricting the obligations of the establishment.

5th. By reducing the number of shares the latter will advance in value.

Business at the second hour was brisker than in the morning, and with an improving tendency, the gold premium showing a stiff decline all round and stocks a fairly vigorous rally, considering the depression. Some General Credit Company's shares changed hands at sixty for the end of the month, and a lot of La Plata Produce Markets at the same rate, which shows a stiff decline. Cedulas were dull and quiet.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

The steamship Paraguay arrived in Montevideo yesterday from Havre with four hundred passengers and 1800 cubic metres of cargo, including 2500 barrels of sugar.

The steamship Scottish Prince, Houlder liner, arrived in Montevideo to day from London with two thousand tons of cargo, also steamship Austriac, Allan liner, with 3500 tons cargo.

Although it is generally taken for granted that real estate has declined very much of late in value, sales effected, especially of city properties, prove the contrary, and show that there has been even an advance on the prices paid heretofore. It is true, nevertheless, that transactions are much more limited. Auctioneers are scarcely making enough commission now to pay their rents, and the long lists of Sunday auctions are forgotten. This, perhaps, has led to the mistaken conclusion that there has been a severe decline in values, when nothing of the kind has taken place, and when the most that can be said is that the great demand for properties has disappeared.

The sale has been effected of the well known property occupied by the Variedades Theatre, and which changed hands for a round half million of dollars, the buyer being the millionaire brewer, Mr. Emily Bieckert. The seller is an ex-member of the City Corporation, and the price paid shews an average of 330 dollars per square yard.

A very good idea has been conceived by Mr. Arthur Evans, and we hope the Government will duly give serious attention to it. Mr. Evans proposes to lay a cable to the outer roads. At a glance we can see the advantages of this project for our shipping, and Mr. Evans offers to carry it into execution on the following conditions: (1) To have the exclusive right of laying a cable from the city of Buenos Aires to the outer roads of the Plate. (2) To place a vessel in the outer roads as a station for the wires, which would be placed in communication with the Government House and all the telegraph stations in the city. (3) In bad weather, all vessels to be at liberty to use the cable, instead of sending boats ashore. (4) No charge to be made for Argentine war vessels.

We take the following resumen of the London money market from the Economist of Dec. 14th:—"The money market has drifted into a very unsatisfactory condition. There is a superabundance of loanable capital, which depresses rates at the very time when it is necessary that they should be maintained, if our stock of gold is not to be reduced to a dangerously low level. The Bank has done what it can to protect the gold reserve, by refusing to sell bar gold, and has in that way staved off the demand for the metal for Germany. But Gold in the shape of sovereigns can at any time be taken from it, and for most foreign requirements sovereigns are as useful as bar gold, while for some, as, for instance, for export to South America, they are more useful. The action of the Bank, therefore, although prudent and beneficial so far as it goes, really goes only a little way towards protecting our stock of gold. It is not improbable, therefore, that we shall have to pay dear in the shape of enhanced rates later on for the present ease, but no immediate advance seems likely, although we must, of course, expect the usual slight temporary hardening in the closing days of the year.

Paraguayan advices announce the departure of Mr. Storm, the eminent explorer, from Asuncion with a party of twenty well armed men in a steam launch, which will proceed up the Pilcomayo to Bolivia. Engineer Freund accompanies the expedition.

Government has approved the statutes of the "Compania de Tramways de Circumvalacion," capital $5,000,000; and also those of the Societe Construcion de Batignolles," capital five millions of Francs.

Government has also approved the contract with Surveyor Cuenca to measure the "ejido" of Biedma, Rio Negro; and subdivide the rural territories of same.
